Portland Maine Law Firm Launches New Website

Wednesday, May 07, 2008

Portland, Maine – The Hallett Law Firm, a Portland, Maine-based personal injury and criminal defense firm, today announced the launch of a new website built to be a resource for Maine residents seeking legal representation. The site features legal information in the areas of personal injury, criminal defense, OUI, malpractice and school disciplinary hearings. The accessibility of a contact form and case initiation sheet on the website, make The Hallett Law Firm website a user-friendly portal for clients to begin their legal representation discovery.

"We wanted a web presence which represents our commitment to the law and our clients" said David A. Weyrens of The Hallett Law Firm. "We worked to get a smarter look and feel that reinforced our experience and dedication."

The Hallett Law Firm, comprised of Thomas F. Hallett, Michael B. Whipple, and David A. Weyrens, provides representation for clients in a wide range of matters, from catastrophic civil cases and high profile criminal matters, to OUI and civil administrative hearings.

With the launch of the new website, The Hallett Law Firm is looking to attract local clients throughout Maine, including Bangor, Lewiston, Portland & Saco. As providers of thorough legal representation, The Hallett Law Firm also hopes to use the website to answer questions and concerns from those who have been victimized or charged with a crime.
